Hello,

I'm Ravikiran, Technical communication specialist.

"I trust the document that helps the professionals who want to learn, upgrade skills, and understand the software product with different versions in the organization and helps the user to use the product in the most effective way across the globe. Moreover, the document will save your time." – Ravikiran k c

Basically, I'm a Bangalorean, love traveling, and am an aspiring author to make my fantasy into a book.

I am also a passionate, disciplined, and efficient technical writer and editor with five and half years of experience in software products.

As a technical writer, my portfolio includes creating various technical documentation such as user manuals, installation guides, configuration guides, online help files, troubleshooting guides, web content, and video creation for IT products.

Apart from technical writing, I got a certification of full-stack Java developer, agile project management, and pursued a fundamental networking certification course to upgrade myself into the networking domain.

Thanks for reading.

Best Regards

Ravikiran k c
